On the 7th the crew having already become impatient at their forced delays a party started northward in search of whalers, expecting to find Capt. Buddington and the remainder of the Polaris crew on board one of them. A light northerly gale still prevailed and in consequence of much ice which impeded navigation Capt Greer was advised to stand to the southward as an early winter had set in. Acting on this advice Capt. Greer, on the afternoon of the 8th stood for St. Johns, keeping in the known track of the whalers and still hopeful of meeting the lost men. Rich Gold Mines Discovered

VICTORIA, Oct 17.—The papers are filled this morning with reports of rich discoveries [illegible] diggings in the Cassiar country. The steamer Otter arrived yesterday from the north bringing [illegible] $100 000 in dust and a number of miners who were compelled to leave on account of the scarcity of provisions. All who arrived yesterday will return early in the spring. The following is a brief account of these mines taken from the Colonist

On May 1st gold was discovered by Henry Thibert, Xavier Loos [illegible] and [illegible] on a creek now known as Thibert creek. They got a few colors at first but 11 days afterwards on the 20th of May they struck [illegible] and they [illegible] a prospect. On the 2d of May they commenced work with rockers at [illegible] from an ounce to $20 a day to the man. [illegible] month [illegible] they set sluices [illegible] work with rockers [illegible] ever afterwards from $[illegible] per day. The main diggings are on the bar of a creek. They have worked in the bench ten feet above high water mark the first being still in the ground. On the bench they make from one to three ounces a day to the hand. They got the pay on the bedrock. The pay gravel is from six inches to twelve in thickness. They built a wingdam and made from two to five ounces a day to the hand on the bar. This creek is from 30 to 50 feet in width, and runs from west to east. It empties into Dease Lake but where it heads is not known. It runs through a range of low hills and the banks are well clothed with spruce timber while fish abound in the lakes and Arctic trout are caught in the creeks. Dease creek 15 miles to the south of Thibert's creek running in the same direction and about the same size was discovered by Moore & Co who got good prospects of $10 to $22 to a pan. When these informants left they were working a bar with rockers and making $2 50 per day to the hand. Mr Thibert has great confidence in the richness of the diggings, their extent of course is not yet known. Wm Waldron is entitled to the honor of taking out the largest nugget yet found in the new diggings. He found it perfectly [illegible] weighing [illegible] ounces which is now in town. H Thibert took out the next largest weighing [illegible]. In coming out the party met three men from [illegible] half way between Buck's Bar and the diggings. They met six men at Pick Saddle Creek fifteen miles from Buck's Bar and saw twenty five men at Fort Wrangle who [illegible] up. Several miners from Omineca arrived yesterday

Mr Griffiths of this city from Lost Creek brought $2 000. A miner who left the diggings about three weeks ago came down by Trying Pan Pass and met no snow. There was no snow on the creeks and mining was going on as usual. On Lost Creek several claims were paying good wages. On Monson several companies were taking out gold. Jim May and party have gone to prospect the Bear Lake country at the head of the waters of the Skeena

The news of the gold discoveries at Cassiar had reached Omineca and men were leaving daily for the new gold fields, very few will remain there

The U. S. steamer Tuscarora sailed for San Francisco yesterday, to continue the soundings for the projected Pacific cable.

ELECTING PRESIDENT

PROPOSED CHANGE IN THE MANNER—SENATOR MORTON'S PROPOSITION

NEW YORK, Oct 8.—Senators Morton Carpenter and Bayard, members of the Committee on Privileges and Elections of the Senate of the United States to-day closed their conference which had been held for the past week in this city. With reference to the mode of electing President the substance of their deliberations thus far involved the following propositions

First to abolish Electoral Colleges

Second. That the President and Vice President be elected by the people voting directly for candidates

Third. That each State shall be divided into as many Districts as the State is entitled to representatives in Congress to be composed of contiguous territory compact in form and as nearly in population as may be and the person having the highest number of votes for President in each District shall receive the vote of that District for President which shall amount to one Presidential vote. That each State shall be entitled to two Presidential votes at large which shall be counted for the person having the highest number of votes in the whole State

Fourth. That the person having the highest number of such Presidential votes in the United States shall be the President

Fifth. These provisions are to be applicable to the election of Vice President.

Sixth. Congress shall have power to provide for holding and conducting such elections for President and Vice President, and to establish tribunals for the decision of any contest as to the vote in any District or State, and make regulations governing the proceedings of those tribunals

By the adoption of the district system of voting by the people directly for candidates with two Presidential votes in the State at large, and the plurality rule for determining the result the election is brought as nearly home to the people as can be. It will make an election by the nation as one community and still recognizes States as such, while it enables the people in each district in a State to express their will so that hereafter a State need not cast a solid vote as under the present system. It tends to dispense with the convention which is now necessary in order to form an electoral ticket for each State and it enlarges the liberties of the individual voter who can vote for any citizen he may select for President or Vice President. By the plurality system the election will always be final and there can be no necessity for an election by the House of Representatives, which is much objected to. The plurality rule has been adopted successfully in all the States in the Union except four in the election of State officers and it generally prevails in the election of members of Congress. In none of these States where it has been tried is there any disposition to abandon it

Other questions were considered in connection with the votes in States and Districts and providing for the exigency of death or resignation of the President after election and before inauguration. These are suggestions which have been considered [illegible] conclusion could be arrived at

DONALDSON'S FIASCO

THE VOYAGE OF THE GRAPHIC BALLOON

NEW YORK, Oct 6.—The Graphic's [illegible] yesterday was taken advantage of by Mr Donaldson to prepare his great transatlantic balloon for the proposed attempt to cross the ocean. Two hundred thousand feet of gas by the [illegible] was let in before dark when the inflation had to be stopped on account of the diminished pressure caused by the illumination of the city. A strong watch divided into three reliefs was kept on the ground all night and shortly after [illegible] o'clock the morning.

THE [illegible] INFLATION

Was resumed. Much difficulty was experienced in conducting this operation successfully on account of frequent violent gusts of wind which several times carried the [illegible] [illegible] and necessitated a call for volunteers [illegible] occupants of the surrounding [illegible]. Shortly after 9 o'clock 300 000 feet of gas had been successfully let into the monster

THE LIFE BOAT [illegible]

Laden with 40 days provisions a number of scientific instruments life preservers etc were attached, and Messrs Donaldson Hunt and Ford took their places inside it. At 19 minutes past the huge cable was cut and the balloon arose with immense velocity. The drag rope depending from the concentrating ring had been stretched out along the ground and as the great air ship soared sky ward, it ripped the rag rope through the grass with a motion that can only be compared to an infuriated whale dragging a harpoon rope

THE CROWD

Cheered lustily, the aeronauts correspondingly waving their hats and blowing a fog horn. The balloon went directly north clearing the houses on that side of the grounds until it had reached an apparent altitude of 1 000 feet. It then deflected sharply to the east with the boat pointing constantly in the direction of the wind. Eighteen minutes after the balloon had left the earth its course was due northeast. From that time it steadily worked toward the east and its course when last seen from the Capitoline grounds was northeast by east. At [illegible] it was observed that the balloon was rapidly rising and its altitude at 10 o'clock was full one mile. The surface current was blowing from the south. The balloon

REMAINED IN SIGHT

From the Capitoline grounds about 45 minutes but from the higher points it was visible for half an hour longer. At 20 minutes past 10 o'clock the signal service officer at the equitable building was enabled by the use of powerful glasses to get one last look at the balloon. At that time it appeared like a dark spot in the clouds and immediately afterward disappeared from sight. The balloon was heading in a northeasterly direction and was rising higher. The officer estimates that at that time it was about a mile from the earth, 40 miles from the City Hall New York. At 10 o'clock the balloon passed over Rye, Westchester county going due east at a good rate of speed. At 11 it was sighted two miles southeast of Bethel Connecticut,

TRAVELING RAPIDLY OCEANWARD

Bridgeport was passed at 10 55 and New Haven at 11 40. It beat the train from Ansonia to Seymour and was seen at Waterbury at noon and at Watertown at 12 30. After passing over Watertown its course changed toward the northeast and it sailed slowly over Litchfield where it was low enough to enable the occupants to hail a man who was working in the field

TWO CARRIER PIGEONS

Were dispatched bearing the following message

"It is now 20 minutes past 9 o'clock. We are 2 000 feet high. Hunt is raising the Old Harry with the horn and we all feel jolly. The scene is magnificent. The sun shines splendidly and Donaldson has just been singing 'Do They Miss Me at Home.' Mr H H Wheeler of Brooklyn was the last man we could distinguish aloft

FORD

IN THE CLOUDS, 10 05 A M.—We are 4 700 feet high going northeast. We all feel very happy. Donaldson says "The dream of my life is now realized." Hunt has been doing something with the ballast and stopping every moment to admire the surpassing grandeur of the scene. It is very hazy all around us and light clouds are floating below. We have just heard three cheers below and have given a toot-toot with the fog horn in reply. We are now at an altitude of 5 000 feet or just one mile. We have just struck the lower portion of the eastern current. We have just passed over Norwalk

ALFRED FORD"

THE LITTLE MESSENGERS

arrived together at their home in Rivercliffe shortly before 11 o'clock but were so frightened that they were caught with difficulty. The aeronauts had a pleasant time of it up to about noon when they began to get into the stormy area of Litchfield county. After passing over a mountain they arrived at a valley where all motion of the balloon was suspended and they were for a time shrouded in a dense cloud of mist and pouring rain, the balloon every now and then being caught and shaken by violent gusts of wind. The adventurers were uncertain what to do. At first they thought they would wait until the balloon descended sufficiently and then cut all the ropes and drop the boat letting the bag escape. The storm however increased with such violence that this was given up as impracticable and it was decided to open the valve, but at this moment the balloon was of wind and rain and was driven to an immense height above the valley and then down again to the earth with frightful velocity spinning over the tops of the trees across a small brook and toward a bank at the bottom of the mountain. Donaldson then gave the order to prepare to jump and he and Ford scrambled to the side of the boat and when the balloon reached within thirty feet of the earth sprang simultaneously. They were very much stunned but otherwise unharmed. Hunt was

and the balloon shot into the air, carrying him clinging to the ropes. He was speedily in the storm cloud again and being whirled about in the most alarming manner. The bag was shaking all about above him with awful force and he could see nothing, so thick were the cloud. He seized the valve cord and attempted to open it but could not as it was entangled with the neck of the balloon. Suddenly trees [illegible] appeared above the fog and in an instant the balloon was

WAITING FOR [illegible]

Hunt climbed to a place above the concentrating ring, and as the balloon dashed into a thicket he swung himself out and dropped. He managed to catch the topmost limb of a tall tree but the boat scraped over his hands [illegible] him to let go and he fell through the branches to the ground fortunately unhurt. A Dr Allen drove him to New Canaan where Donaldson and Ford soon afterward arrived, having [illegible] to Mr Charles Lewis of North Canaan [illegible] farm they landed. The balloon was captured and [illegible]

Like the painted mistresses of King George, these fellows come among us, not for our good but for our goods

From the Statesman we learn that late Wednesday evening Sheriff Scott arrested three men on a charge of having stolen some blankets and other articles on the Fair Ground the property of one George W Smith. The names of the parties arrested are James Howard Patrick Flynn and Chas Dobson. At the trial Howard and Flynn pleaded guilty to the charge set forth in the information. Dobson pleading not guilty. Upon a voluntary statement of Howard and Flynn to the effect that Dobson had no part in the theft and knew nothing of it, he having merely allowed the other two to sleep in the room where the theft was committed and at the request of the prosecuting witness the Prosecuting Attorney moved that Dobson be discharged, which was accordingly done. The others were fined $25 each and costs the lowest penalty for petty larceny and in default of the necessary amount to meet the demand were sent back to jail

The editor of the Advocate, writing from Oysterville W T says "There are five companies engaged in the oyster trade at this place. According to the Territorial law passed in 1857, no one person can claim more than ten acres of oyster ground. Each member of a company therefore represents ten acres. These beds are all marked off with poles which are driven in the mud, and subdivided in the same way as occasion requires. On each acre about 4,000 baskets of young oysters are placed, being transplanted from the natural oyster beds which no one is permitted to claim. These oysters reach maturity in from three to five years, and are worth at least $1 per basket on the ground. In the third year they commence to cull them, sending the merchantable ones to market in San Francisco, Portland, and elsewhere.'

The Olympia Courier says bills before the Legislature contemplate making certain changes in the times and places of holding terms of Court in the Territory. It is proposed to make Stevens and Whitman counties into a subdistrict with Colfax as the place of holding Court. Walla Walla and Yakima City are the other two places in the First District. In the Second District it is proposed to change the place of holding Court from Oysterville to Kalama. The other two places are Olympia and Vancouver. No changes in the Third District, Seattle, Steilacoom and Port Townsend continue to be the three places. Another change is proposed, limiting all terms of the District Court to three weeks, in jury cases, but the respective courts to be always in [illegible] for the rendition of judgments and the trial of such causes as do not require the intervention of juries.

A HORRIBLE STORY

MUTILATION OF THE BODIES OF THE HANGED MODOCS—JACK AND SCONCHIN DECAPITATED

The S F Chronicle's correspondent at Fort Klamath writes under date of October 4th

Your correspondent a short time before the execution desirous of ascertaining the design of the wall tent already alluded to, obtained a passing glance of the interior. He saw within a long table, similar to those used in the dissecting room of a medical college. A black water proof India rubber blanket was spread thereon. A barrel of water was in one corner. In another was a case of surgical instruments and apparatus necessary for some anatomical disintegration. He subsequently ascertained that the heads of Captain Jack and Sconchin were removed from their trunks and placed in alcohol for transmittal to the Medical Museum at Washington. Language cannot be found severe enough to denounce this act. It certainly could not have been committed on the order of Gen. Wheaton or any officer at Fort Klamath. It is said to have emanated from

HEADQUARTERS AT WASHINGTON

And could only have been issued to gratify the prurient curiosity of the Moguls at the nation's Capital. The Modocs tortured our wounded and mutilated our dead. Where is our boasted civilization when after dealing out strict justice to these captives we shamefully mutilate their remains? This is vengeance indeed when the great Government of the United States stoops down to cut off the head of a savage chief who had warred against it and who had successfully battled against its power for months. As an American citizen your correspondent would gladly suppress this hideous fact. Civilization throughout the globe will blush at the act. The warrior Chief in his dying speech said that he would like to meet the Great White Chief at Washington face to face. The Government evidently intends that his dying wish shall be respected. The decapitation of Captain Jack's head is a reproach to the nation and the foulest blot on the page which records the history of the Modoc war

Bowen has sold the Brooklyn Union to a joint stock company of local politicians and capitalists and talks of selling the Independent also and going to Europe for a long residence with his family. Which is a very sensible thing for him to do

ELECTING THE PRESIDENT

The present mode of electing the President of the United States is conceded on all sides to be imperfect It is liable to two objections First, it is cumbrous The greatest simplicity combined with the highest degree of efficiency, is the thing most to be desired in all the modes and appliances of popular government And government by the people is the highest charter in the model republic Secondly, it is dangerous Perhaps this fault of the present system was exposed in the latest Presidential election more clearly than ever before. A certain part of the electoral vote in that election was cast for Horace Greeley, but the recipient died before the electoral college assembled The question then arose For whom should the Greeley electors cast their vote? The [illegible] arose thereupon [illegible] seen that the members of the electoral college are merely trustees who can at any moment violate their trusts, while at the same time the people are without [illegible] remedy. In other words, in a certain contingency a nation could be disfranchised, the will of the people could be [illegible] by conspiracy and an obnoxious [illegible] could be forced upon the country [illegible] the principal would be bound by the [illegible] act of the agent, and relief would be obtainable only through revolution [illegible] the 12th Amendment to the Constitution: "The electors shall meet in their respective States and vote by ballot for President and Vice President," etc Thus [illegible] choose the Electors and the [illegible] choose the President. This is, as [illegible] the most considerable [illegible] to the mode now in operation.

The [illegible] Committee on Privileges [illegible] have just closed their [illegible] York. They have embodied the [illegible] of their deliberations in five propositions which will be found in another [illegible] The first of these propositions [illegible] the difficulty of which we have [illegible] the abolition of the [illegible] College. In its place we have [illegible] of the second proposition [illegible] Vice-President be [illegible] by the people voting directly for [illegible] It is hardly possible that [illegible] would be opposed in the present [illegible] of public feeling. Under its op[illegible] would have the [illegible] for a candidate outside [illegible] by the electoral ticket [illegible] under the [illegible] is compelled to vote a [illegible] practically disfranchised. [illegible] provides "that [illegible] divided into as many [illegible] entitled to repr[illegible] to be composed of contiguous [illegible] compact in form, and as [illegible] as may be, and [illegible] the highest number of [illegible] in each district shall [illegible] of that district for President [illegible] be entitled to [illegible] which [illegible] the person having [illegible] of votes in the whole [illegible] of this proposition [illegible] the district the [illegible] the State is now [illegible] and the district is a fraction [illegible] be "composed of contiguous [illegible] compact in form." [illegible] provision be [illegible] the principle of minority [illegible] will have ample recognition [illegible] trick of so districting the [illegible] out the total parti[illegible] the different divisions [illegible] the opposition out of [illegible] which trick has [illegible] would have to be [illegible] against.

[illegible] makes a plu[illegible] for an election [illegible] can be no substantial [illegible] Against the fifth [illegible] very grave objections [illegible] It proposes to confer upon [illegible] "to establish tribunals for [illegible] of any contest as to the vote [illegible] district or State, and make regulations [illegible] the proceedings of those [illegible]" The safety of lodging such a [illegible] this in the Congress is not as [illegible] as it might be. We question [illegible] amendment, em[illegible] of this kind, could be [illegible] this time.

[illegible] the recommendations [illegible] by the Senate Committee [illegible] we think with very general ap[illegible] The members of the Committee [illegible] Carpenter and [illegible] have prepared an amendment to [illegible] Constitution in which these proposi[illegible] embodied It is understood that [illegible] amendment will be submitted to the [illegible] third Congress.

A PRAISEWORTHY DEED

It may be a very commonplace affair [illegible] the finder of lost valuables to restore [illegible] to the owner without solicitation [illegible] is a common virtue—perhaps. [illegible] a little incident which happened yesterday in this city has been brought to [illegible] notice, and we deem it worth something more than a passing mention At the [illegible] tion sale of Mr S O L Potter [illegible] an expressman in walking about the [illegible] picked up a handsome gold [illegible] valued at $150, which had been [illegible] some time since, by Mrs Margaret Price. Although his discovery was made in a street, the finder immediately restored the property to its owner, at the same [illegible] refusing to accept any reward whatsoever. We may be a little eccentric in our wish to commend this virtuous action but it is eminently proper that when an honest man is found now days the community should learn of the discovery The name of this honest expressman is Walter Danvers.

The editor of the Louisville Courier Journal [illegible] admitted that the monetary disturbance [illegible] affect the [illegible] interests of Louisville, until the [illegible] of depositors in front of the banks compelled him to go three blocks [illegible] of his way to get his Bourbon Then he [illegible]

OREGON CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY

This is an association of philanthropic ladies of Salem, whose charities have already been felt, to a very considerable extent, in the noble work of relieving the necessities of the homeless orphan children of our State and providing for their maintenance The Society is young, but as is shown by the reports published in another column, it has attained a vigorous growth and an excellent standing as an eleemosynary institution For several years it has struggled bravely against adverse circumstances, sustained in the meanwhile by contributions from the purses of its generous founders, and donations from sympathizing friends Its Home is situate about one mile from the city of Salem It is a commodious, comfortable edifice, pleasantly situated, and in every way adapted to the wants of the Society The last Legislature made an appropriation for the aid of the Society, which, while it may answer for the present, must soon be increased We are gratified to note the prosperous condition of the Society's finances The objects sought to be attained entitle the public-spirited directors to the sympathy and substantial support of every community in Oregon Let the good work go on

THE DANGER OF "PATENT INSIDES"

The Illinois State Journal relates a laughable incident that occurred recently in Crawford county, O, wherein the Bucyrus Forum was victimized by a mischievous political opponent The Forum is a "dyed in-the-wool" Democratic sheet Its inside pages, for the sake of economy, are printed in Chicago Of course, as a prominent Democratic journal in Crawford county, it has always supported the Democratic candidate for Governor of Ohio, Hon Wm Allen But by some accident the following editorial note appeared in the Forum two weeks ago

The great antiquity of Bill Allen is beyond question, as Homer speaks of him under the alias of "Stentor" After Noyes takes some of the wind out of him, it is said he will be offered a situation to act as fog horn on the Rhode Island coast

The astonished editor tried to "beg off" on the plea that it was all the result of the "patent inside" business, but the horny-handed Democrats of old Crawford didn't exactly understand that, and all the leaders of the party in Bucyrus had to go through the county and endeavor to explain the matter to the unscratching Democracy of that Bourbon locality.

The Chicago Post takes a very sensible view of the theory that the panic followed the "impaired confidence of European, capitalist in American railway securities," caused by the farmers movement. It says "It is the general unprofitableness of roads owned abroad that has created a distrust of foreigners in American railway investments. And we cannot much wonder that it is so. Burned children proverbially dread fire and even the most stolid of Englishmen will [illegible] about advancing more money to [illegible] in which millions have already been hopelessly sunk."

An Illinois journal is authority for the statement that Major Jackson, of Modoc war fame, is a grandson of the eminent Welshman, Morgan John Rhys, a native of South Wales, who emigrated to this country to avoid the persecution of English authorities in 1794

With the assistance kindly granted the Society by the Legislature at their last assemblage, we have been enabled to prosecute our labor with confidence and cheerfulness, and to extend charity and aid to all of the friendless orphans who have sought a refuge within the walls of our "Home" We also trust we have secured good homes for quite a number of our unfortunate ones, with friends by whom they will be educated, and through whose kindness they will enjoy the blessings and privileges of a peaceful and happy home.

Mrs Converse in whose faithfulness and integrity we repose entire confidence has been retained as Matron of the Home for the ensuing year

CITY.

NEW COAL MINE—A trial of the quality of the coal which was recently discovered in Douglas county was made in this city on Thursday The result we learn was very satisfactory The coal produces a good quality of gas but it will not coke The mines are situated very near the line of the O & C R R so that the coal can be put down in this city for a trifle below $8 per ton or $5 cheaper than it can be shipped from Coos or Bellingham Bays The gas company are compensated in a measure for the high price paid for the Bellingham Bay coal by the sale of coke in addition to what they realize from the gas The difference in the price of the coal which may be brought from Douglas county will more than offset the price of coke, and the gas company can well afford to use it A company has been organized to work and develop these mines articles of incorporation having been filed on Thursday A side track is being laid from the main road to these mines and active operations will soon commence For fuel purposes this coal is said to be of a superior quality

PORTLAND CITY DIRECTORY—In a few days Mr A Bishop ler will commence canvassing the city for names and advertisements for the Portland City Directory for 1874 This is the twelfth year of publication of this invaluable business reference and guide-book Mr S J McCormick has for the last eleven years compiled the materials collected, and superintended the publication of these Directories Thus far they have met all requirements in furnishing strangers and business men with much desirable information In the preparation and compilation of the forthcoming work the publisher will put forth special efforts and spare no expense to make it surpass all former issues As usual the book will embrace a directory of this city and East Portland, a business directory and other statistical matter relative to the progress and present condition of the city The great object is to make the Directory accurate and reliable to secure which the publisher will bend every effort

WHARF AND WAREHOUSE—Permission was asked by Messrs Barnard & Griswold at the last meeting of the Common Council to construct a large wharf and warehouse between the old distillery and the river The petition was referred to the appropriate committee with instructions to report at the next meeting of the Council Work has already been commenced for this structure A number of carpenters are engaged in framing timbers and building the foundation on the solid land Piles have not yet been driven where the wharf will extend out into the river but this part of the work is shortly to be commenced The wharf is to be 170 feet long and 40 feet in width It will be two stories high The structure is designed for general storage and shipping purposes. As rapidly as lumber can be obtained the work will progress and the intention is to have the entire improvement finished within two months

FIREMAN DEAD—Information was received in this city last evening of the death of Mr Thomas Harrington, a well known and highly esteemed member of Willamette No 1 Mr Harrington departed life at St Mary's Hospital, at Vancouver, yesterday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock His death was consumption This disease was brought on by exposure and over-exertion made during the great fire last December He contracted a severe cold, which, from that time until his death, insidiously undermined the foundations of health For some months before his death he was at the hospital, where he was carefully provided for Deceased was aged about thirty years He leaves a wife A meeting will be held by the members of Willamette Co No 1, this evening, to take some action in relation to the funeral obsequies of their dead comrade

TILE FOR THE CUSTOM HOUSE—There arrived by the schooner Perpetua 1,305 Belgian tile imported directly from Europe These tile are to be used in laying the floor for the new Custom House That portion of the new building which will be used for the Postoffice, and also along the halls, is to be laid with tile Some idea can be formed of the cost of such floor when it is known that each section of the tile about one foot square—cost one dollar Several thousand tile will be required about the building It is the intention to use one-half common white American tile in the work The Belgian tile is a dark brown, and by alternating the blocks a beautiful variegated floor can be laid. Most of the required quantity of both kinds of the articles is now in San Francisco, and will be shipped here soon

STILL GOES ON—The building mania still remains unabated although the season is already far advanced. Yesterday the City Surveyor was engaged in surveying along Front street, to determine the precise limits of the new brick row which G. W Vaughn contemplates erecting, at the corner of Front and Morrison streets Proposals have been advertised for, for building material and work When the contract is let work will begin without delay Considering the character of the ground, the great amount of work as well as material, necessary to build the foundation and the lateness of the season it is scarcely probable that more than the basement will be finished ere the winter fairly sets in WOOD SHIPMENT—The specimens of fine Oregon Wood which Mr D Holton of this city has been collecting the past season, are now being started on their long journey to the East. The blocks are securely boxed and one lot will be forwarded to San Francisco by the steamer which sails to-day Thence it will be sent by a sailing vessel around Cape Horn to New York These woods which are mostly of the variety known here as "curly maple" will doubtless attract much attention in the cities of the East and perhaps reward the shipper with a handsome return for his trouble and expense.

INDICTED—Friday morning Isaac Cohagan was arraigned in the Police Court on a charge of assaulting a Chinaman on Thursday with a deadly weapon—a pistol The case was carefully examined into and at the conclusion the Court reserved its decision until this morning Meantime the grand jury now in session took the matter up and returned a true bill This action will doubtless render any decision on the part of Judge Denny unnecessary Now that Cohagan is indicted his bonds will be increased

UNDER INVESTIGATION—Five cases of illegal voting which came up for examination in the Police Court, have all been transferred to the grand jury which body is now in session All the defendants, with but one exception waived an examination, gave bonds and were released Already has the grand jury commenced careful, searching and thorough investigation of these alleged cases of illegal voting The man Franklin, one of the five, has been indicted

SAILS EARLIER—Passengers who contemplate taking passage on the steamer John L Stephens for San Francisco are requested to notice the change in the time of sailing "In stead of sailing at 4 o'clock this evening as previously announced, the steamer will leave her wharf at 2 o'clock sharp To be certain passengers should be on board at 1 30 o'clock this afternoon Delays are hazardous especially when a steamer is to sail on time

MINNEHAHA—This little steamer has been hauled for repairs near the railroad ferry landing New knees have been placed along the forward portion of the hull and new planks are being nailed on These repairs have long been needed as two old knees and part of the hull were much decayed The old craft will soon have been in a condemned condition had she not been overhauled She will be ready for service in a week

SCHOOL TAX—The assessment roll for school District No 1 is completed The following synopsis will give our readers the amount of property assessed and tax collected Whole amount of assessment, $11,[illegible] total indebtedness $2,692,168 property exempt $140,580 net amount of tax $8,[illegible] total amount collected $17,708 57 The school tax for the present year was 2 mills on the dollar

WHEAT RECEIPTS—For the week ending yesterday, the following quantities of wheat have been received here from Eastern Oregon by the O S N Co's boats Saturday 80 tons Monday, 120 tons Tuesday, 110 tons Wednesday, 40 tons, Thursday, 80 tons, Friday, 60 tons Total, 500 tons.

READINGS—Prof C B Plummer gave one of his select readings at Oregon City on Thursday evening We learn that a crowded house greeted his appearance there This evening he will give an entertainment at East Portland at Odd Fellows Hall On next Monday he will start for Walla Walla on a professional tour but will return to Portland in a few weeks

COTSWOLD SHEEP—Nineteen fine blooded sheep are in the corral of the O S N Company's wharf awaiting shipment to Willow Creek Eastern Oregon These Cotswolds were purchased by Mr R C Kinney from Mr S G Reed and will be added to a flock of 2,000 head owned by Mr Kinney in that valley

HARVEST CONCERT—The Sunday School of the Unitarian Church will give a concert consisting of various exercises appropriate to the season of the year and the close of harvest to-morrow evening, in the chapel corner of Yamhill and Seventh streets

MACHINERY—Fifty packages of heavy machinery came up on the last San Francisco steamer bound for the Washougal mines The machinery will be forwarded to its destination in a few days

CHANGE OF MEETING—The regular monthly meeting of the Rebecca Degree Lodge I O O F has been changed from the evening of the third Thursday to the first Tuesday in each month

UNITED STATES COURTS—The U S Circuit Court will convene next Monday morning and the District on Tuesday morning

OUT DOOR SPORTS.

There is some talk of getting up a first class rowing race on the river opposite the city on Thanksgiving Day

The third and final game of cricket will likely be played next Saturday—the contestants being the single and married elevens of the St George's Cricket Club The game has been delayed on account of some members being disabled.

At the Multnomah Race Course next Friday and Saturday afternoons there will be trotting and running races by the best horses in the State These races will likely be the last of the season, and under the circumstances, no doubt a large crowd may be expected to be present who will put up money lively on the contests

After all the talk there appears a prospect of getting up a first-class rowing race among the lovers of nautical exercise We learn that the crew of the Occidental who recently were victorious in the race which came off down the river challenge the crew of the Dreadnaught or any other crew in the State for a race on the river the preliminaries to be arranged mutually between the rival clubs As the Occidental's crew are the victors a challenge from any of the other crews would be proper We shall expect to see the gauntlet thus thrown down readily picked up Who speaks first?

The Base Ball season may be said to have come to a close in this section although the weather is likely to be pleasant enough for a month to come. As no response to letters from the Pioneers to the College boys have been received, that looks very much like an ending of games between these clubs for this season at least We should like to see these clubs meet once more and then settle that disputed claim—the championship True the College boys have beaten our boys badly on two occasions, yet it is but fair, since the Salem club agreed that a grand final game should be played for one object that of finally deciding which is the best club Our boys think they can win a ball from their gentlemanly opponents Let us have a final game and further let the defeated club retire gracefully from the field No matter where, by all means settle the disputed claim to superiority

AMUSEMENTS.

The second parlor entertainment given by Vivian and his clever troupe came off last evening at Masonic Hall A large and appreciative audience greeted the company Want of space forbids at this late hour particularization We can truthfully say that the performance was up to Vivian's usual standard—refined elevating and funny Madame Rufarth appeared several times during the evening and rendered the selections in a manner quite acceptable to the audience Mr H J Lask the very clever pianist rather outdid his previous performances before a Portland audience and won deserved applause Master McKenzie sang the Vagabond (Malloy) pleasingly and obtained a well merited encore The beautiful duet What are the Wild Waves Saying (Glover) sung by Madame Rufarth and Master McKenzie was quite passable but scarcely up to public expectations But Jester the ventriloquist, whose artistic performances please and charm the audience is beyond the most severe rules of criticism To appreciate him he must be seen Then comes last but best Vivian himself, with his rollicking fun sparkling wit and pleasing songs He too can be better appreciated when seen This evening the farewell performance will be offered At 2 o'clock this afternoon a matinee will be given Next week the troupe start for Victoria via the Sound

The most stylish of belts are of black velvet, with three oxydized buckles and chatelaine Cut steel ornaments are also placed on the back of velvet belts

Camel's hair lace is the latest novelty for trimming camel's hair It is more light and wiry than yak shows much of the white fleece and is in black and natural gray shades

Breakfast caps have small crowns instead of the high pointed Normandy shape Pink and blue crape silk are associated in one cap while another is trimmed with black velvet ribbons and rose buds

Among novelties are sets of stripped percale collar and cuffs with new flaring standing collar and very wide French cuffs Fanciful linked balls of gilt oxydized silver and blue gray metal fasten the collar and cuffs

New long basquines of cloth fitting the figure behind and with velvet rolled collar in front are called ladies overcoats They are comfortable and graceful cloaks though rather masculine looking Short English walking jackets are made with very long waists fitted by cross seams to lie smoothly on the tournure

Stylish French fraises to wear with black dresses are found ready made of black silk with white silk lining and crape lisse pleating Black velvet standing collars white revers have also a quadruple box pleating, showing colored lining Fine muslin pleated ruffs edged with real Valenciennes and shaped narrower in front

In the matter of overskirts the caprice here is for long, smooth clinging breadths with square corners though the pretty wrinkled rounded apron is still seen in French dresses The round apron overskirts of imported dresses are very long and are simply trimmed with a bias fold and piping some are buttoned down to the left side and others are draped differently on each side

The stylish French wraps are long simply shaped sacques with the new religieuse sleeve straight and long These are shown in a figured fabric with raised diamonds as if quilted, and the same woolen diamond stuffs are imported Black lynx fur in wide bands is the trimming Long ample cloaks of shaggy cloths trimmed with yak braid and wooden buttons are imported for old ladies

The most elegant French dresses are those intended for carriage and visiting costumes and also for dressy occasions in the house These are partly velvet partly silk are either out of the dark stylish shades or else black and consist of a basque with an elaborately trimmed demi train and perhaps some part of an overskirt such as an apron front or else the pendent chatelaine breadths or sashes hanging at the back and sides

FOR TOBACCO

The Daily Oregonian.

SATURDAY MORNING OCTOBER 18 1873

CITY.

NEW COAL MINE—A trial of the quality of the coal which was recently discovered in Douglas county was made in this city on Thursday. The result we learn was very satisfactory. This coal produces a good quality of gas but will not coke. The mines are situated very near the line of the O & C R R so that the coal can be put down in this city for a trifle below $8 per ton or so cheaper than it can be shipped from Coos or Bellingham Bays. The gas company are compensated in a measure for the high price paid for the Bellingham Bay coal by the sale of coke in addition to what they realize from the gas. The difference in the price of the coal which may be brought from Douglas county, will more than offset the price of coke, and the gas company can well afford to use it. A company has been organized to work and develop these mines articles of incorporation having been filed on Thursday. A side track is being laid from the main road to these mines and active operations will soon commence. For fuel purposes this coal is said to be of a superior quality.

PORTLAND CITY DIRECTORY—In a few days Mr A. Bashwiler will commence canvassing the city for names and advertisements for the Portland City Directory for 1874. This is the twelfth year of publication of this invaluable business reference and guide book. Mr S J McCormick has for the last eleven years compiled the materials collected, and superintended the publication of these Directories. Thus far they have met all requirements in furnishing strangers and business men with much desirable information. In the preparation and compilation of the forthcoming work the publisher will put forth special efforts and spare no expense to make it surpass all former issues. As usual the book will embrace a directory of this city and East Portland, a business directory and other statistical matter relative to the progress and present condition of the city. The great object is to make the Directory accurate and reliable to secure which the publisher will bend every effort.

WHARF AND WAREHOUSE—Permission was asked by Messrs Barnard & Griswold at the last meeting of the Common Council to construct a large wharf and warehouse between the old distillery and the river. The petition was referred to the appropriate committee with instructions to report at the next meeting of the Council. Work has already been commenced for this structure. A number of carpenters are engaged in framing timbers and building the foundation on the solid land. Piles have not yet been driven where the wharf will extend out into the river but this part of the work is shortly to be commenced. The wharf is to be 170 feet long and 40 feet in width. It will be two stories high. The structure is designed for general storage and shipping purposes. As rapidly as lumber can be obtained, the work will progress and the intention is to have the entire improvement finished within two months.

FIREMAN DEAD—Information was received in this city last evening of the death of Mr Thomas Harrington, a well known and highly esteemed member of Willamette No 1. Mr Harrington departed life at St Mary's Hospital, at Vancouver, yesterday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock. His disease was consumption. This disease was brought on by exposure and over-exertion made during the great fire last December. He contracted a severe cold, which, from that time until his death, insidiously undermined the foundations of health. For some months before his death he was at the hospital, where he was carefully provided for. Deceased was aged about thirty years. He leaves a wife. A meeting will be held by the members of Willamette Co No 1 this evening to take some action in relation to the funeral obsequies of their dead comrade.

TILE FOR THE CUSTOM HOUSE—There arrived by the schooner [illegible] 1,305 Belgian tile imported directly from Europe. These tile are to be used in laying the floor for the new Custom House. That portion of the new building which will be used for the Postoffice and also along the halls is to be laid with tile. Some idea can be formed of the cost of such floor when it is known that each section of the tile—about one foot square—cost one dollar. Several thousand tile will be required about the building. It is the intention to use one-half common white American tile in the work. The Belgian tile is a dark brown and by alternating the blocks a beautiful tessellated floor can be laid. Most of the required quantity of both kinds of the article is now in San Francisco, and will be shipped here soon.

STILL GOES ON—The building mania still remains unabated although the season is already far advanced. Yesterday the City Surveyor was engaged in surveying along Front street, to determine the precise limits of the new brick row which G W Vaughn contemplates erecting, at the corner of Front and Morrison streets. Proposals have been advertised for, for building material and work. When the contract is let, work will begin without delay. Considering the character of the ground, the great amount of work, as well as material, necessary to build the foundation, and the lateness of the season it is scarcely probable that more than the basement will be finished ere the winter fairly sets in.

WOOD SHIPMENT—The specimens of fine Oregon Wood which Mr D Hollon of this city has been collecting the past season are now being started on their long journey to the East. The blocks are securely boxed and one lot will be forwarded to San Francisco by the steamer which sails to-day. Thence it will be sent by a sailing vessel around Cape Horn to New York. These woods, which are mostly of the variety known here as curly maple, will doubtless attract much attention in the cities of the East, and perhaps reward the shipper with a handsome return for his trouble and expense.

INDICTED—Friday morning Isaac Cohagan was arraigned in the Police Court on a charge of assaulting a Chinaman on Thursday with a deadly weapon—a pistol. The case was carefully examined into and at the conclusion the Court reserved its decision until this morning. Meantime the grand jury now in session took the matter up and returned a true bill. This action will doubtless render any decision on the part of Judge Denny unnecessary. Now that Cohagan is indicted his bonds will be increased.

UNDER INVESTIGATION—Five cases of illegal voting which came up for examination in the Police Court have all been transferred to the grand jury which body is now in session. All the defendants with but one exception waived an examination gave bonds and were released. Already has the grand jury commenced careful searching and thorough investigation of these alleged cases of illegal voting. The man Franklin, one of the five, has been indicted.

SAILS EARLIER—Passengers who contemplate taking passage on the steamer John L Stephens for San Francisco are requested to notice the change in the time of sailing. Instead of sailing at 4 o'clock this evening as previously announced the steamer will leave her wharf at 2 o'clock sharp. To be certain passengers should be on board at 1 30 o'clock this afternoon. Delays are hazardous especially when a steamer is to sail on time.

MINNEHAHA—This little steamer has hauled for repairs near the railroad ferry landing. New knees have been placed all along the forward portion of the hull and new planks are being nailed on. These repairs have long been needed as the old knees and many timbers of the hull were much decayed. The craft would soon have been in a condemned condition had she not been overhauled. She will be ready for service in a week.

SCHOOL TAX—The assessment roll for School District No 1 is completed. The following synopsis will give our readers the amount of property assessed and tax collected. Whole amount of assessment $2,168,5[illegible] total indebtedness $2,192,468 property exempt $140,580 net amount of tax $8,854 28 total amount collected $17,708 57. The school tax for the present year was 4 mills on the dollar.

WHEAT RECEIPTS—For the week ending yesterday, the following quantities of wheat have been received here from Eastern Oregon by the O S N Co's boats: Saturday 80 tons Monday, 120 tons Tuesday, 110 tons Wednesday, 40 tons, Thursday, 80 tons Friday, 60 tons. Total, 600 tons.

READINGS—Prof C B Plummer gave one of his select readings at Oregon City on Thursday evening. We learn that a crowded house greeted his appearance there. This evening he will give an entertainment at East Portland at Odd Fellows Hall. On next Monday he will start for Walla Walla on a professional tour but will return to Portland in a few weeks.

COTSWOLD SHEEP—Nineteen fine blooded sheep are in the corral of the O S N Company's wharf awaiting shipment to Willow Creek Eastern Oregon. These Cotswolds were purchased by Mr R C Kinney from Mr S G Reed and will be added to a flock of 1000 head owned by Mr Kinney in that valley.

HARVEST CONCERT—The Sunday School of the Unitarian Church will give a concert consisting of various exercises appropriate to the season of the year and the close of harvest to-morrow evening in the chapel corner of Yamhill and Seventh streets.

MACHINERY—Fifty packages of heavy machinery came up on the last San Francisco steamer bound for the Washougal mines. The machinery will be forwarded to its destination in a few days.

CHANGE OF MEETING—The regular monthly meeting of Rebecca Degree Lodge I O O F has been changed from the evening of the third Thursday to the first Tuesday in each month.

UNITED STATES COURTS—The U S Circuit Court will convene next Monday morning, and the District on Tuesday morning.

OUT DOOR SPORTS

There is some talk of getting up a first class rowing race on the river opposite the city on Thanksgiving Day.

The third and final game of cricket will likely be played next Saturday—the contestants being the single and married elevens of the St George's Cricket Club. The game has been delayed on account of some members being disabled.

At the Multnomah Race Course, next Friday and Saturday afternoons there will be trotting and running races by the best horses in the State. These races will likely be the last of the season, and under the circumstances no doubt a large crowd may be expected to be present who will put up money lively on the contests.

After all the talk there appears a prospect of getting up a first-class rowing race among the lovers of nautical exercise. We learn that the crew of the Occidental, who recently were victorious in the race which came off down the river challenge the crew of the Dreadnaught or any other crew in the State for a race on the river the preliminaries to be arranged mutually between the rival clubs. As the Occidental's crew are the victors a challenge from any of the other crews would be proper. We shall expect to see the gauntlet thus thrown down readily picked up. Who speaks first?

The Base Ball season may be said to have come to a close in this section, although the weather is likely to be pleasant enough for a month to come. As no response to letters from the Pioneers to the College boys have been received, that looks very much like an ending of games between these clubs for this season at least. We should like to see these clubs meet once more, and then settle that disputed claim—the championship. True the College boys have beaten our boys badly on two occasions yet it is but fair, since the Salem club agreed that a grand final game should be played for one object, that of finally deciding which is the best club. Our boys think they can win a ball from their gentlemanly opponents. Let us have a final game and further let the defeated club retire gracefully from the field. No matter where by all means settle the disputed claim to superiority.

Ordered that H M De France be requested to examine the books of the late County Treasurer, and report upon the State school land fund, and its condition up to the 1st of February 1873.

In the matter of the review of a county road leading from the northwest corner of John H Couch's land claim in the north line of the city of Portland to the Columbia county line via Springville following the foothills—report of viewers read second time and order made establishing the road according to report of viewers, and map and notes of survey.

AMUSEMENTS.

The second parlor entertainment given by Vivian and his clever troupe came off last evening at Masonic Hall. A large and appreciative audience greeted the company. Want of space forbids at this late hour particularization. We can truthfully say that the performance was up to Vivian's usual standard—refined elevating and funny. Madame Rufarth appeared several times during the evening, and rendered the selections in a manner quite acceptable to the audience. Mr H J Lask the very clever pianist rather outdid his previous performances before a Portland audience and won deserved applause. Master McKenzie sang the Vagabond (Molloy) pleasingly and obtained a well merited encore. The beautiful duet What are the Wild Waves Saying (Glover) sung by Madame Rufarth and Master McKenzie, was quite passable but scarcely up to public expectations. But Jester, the ventriloquist, whose artistic performances please and charm the audience is beyond the most severe rules of criticism. To appreciate him he must be seen. Then comes last but best Vivian himself with his rollicking fun sparkling wit and pleasing songs. He too can be better appreciated when seen. This evening the farewell performance will be offered. At 2 o'clock this afternoon a matinee will be given. Next week the troupe start for Victoria via the Sound.

Prof Marsh of Yale College is now in San Francisco. He was in Portland a few weeks ago. The Professor accompanied by his party will start next week on a scientific tour for the Rocky Mountains and thence East.

We acknowledge the pleasure of a call last evening from J D White Esq a young attorney from Wisconsin. Mr White is a reader and elocutionist of considerable merit. He came overland through Eastern Oregon giving elocutionary entertainments along the route. In a few days he will depart for the Sound but proposes to revisit Portland very shortly.

Wilson's Circus has gone to California via the overland route.

FASHION NOTES.

White mask veils with black chenille dots are becoming and stylish.

Elegant French galloons to be laid flatly on velvet or silk have drooping tasselled ornaments. There is a special fancy for galloons of solid jet.

Handsome ornaments for the hair are bows of China crape of palest tints with Valenciennes lace medallions leaves or butterflies mounted on wire.

The most stylish of belts are of black velvet with three oxydized buckles and chatelaine. Cut steel ornaments are also placed on the back of velvet belts.

Camel's hair lace is the latest novelty for trimming camel's hair. It is more light and wiry than yak, shows much of the white fleece and is in black and natural gray shades.

Breakfast caps have small crowns instead of the high pointed Normandy shape. Pink and blue rippled silk are associated in one cap while another is trimmed with black velvet ribbons and rose buds.

Among novelties are sets of stripped percale collar and cuffs with new flaring standing collar and very wide French cuffs. Beautiful linked balls of gilt oxydized silver and blue gray metal fasten the collar and cuffs.

New long basquines of cloth fitting the figure behind and with velvet rolled collar in front are called ladies overcoats. They are comfortable and graceful cloaks though rather masculine looking. Short English walking jackets are made with very long waists fitted by cross seams to lie smoothly on the tournure.

Stylish French fraises to wear with black dresses are found ready made of black silk with white silk lining and rapelisse plaiting. Black velvet standing collars white revers have also a quadruple box plaiting showing colored lining. Fine muslin pleated ruffs edged with real Valenciennes and shaped narrower in front.

In the matter of overskirts the caprice here is for long smooth clinging breadths with square corners though the pretty wrinkled rounded apron is still seen in French dresses. The round apron overskirts of imported dresses are very long, and are simply trimmed with a bias fold and piping, some are buttoned down to the left side and others are draped differently on each side.

The stylish French wraps are long simply shaped sacques with the new religieuse sleeve straight and long. These are shown in a figured fabric with raised diamonds as if quilted, and the same woolen diamond stuffs are imported. Black lynx fur in wide bands is the trimming. Long ample cloaks of shaggy cloths trimmed with yak braid and wooden buttons are imported for old ladies.

The most elegant French dresses are those intended for carriage and visiting costumes and also for dressy occasions in the house. These are partly velvet partly silk are either one of the dark stylish shades or else black and consist of a basque with an elaborately trimmed demi train and perhaps some part of an overskirt such as an apron front or else the pendent chatelaine breadths or slashes hanging at the back and sides.

New evening dresses show a variety of materials—tulle silk and satin in one dress. For instance, one of white faille has tulle loosely puffed on the back breadths with diagonal bands upon it. On the right is a garland of variegated roses while the left is draped by a sash of brown velvet with blue silk lining. The low corsage has short sleeves with upturned trimmings that are as effective as regular ruffs. The various colors and materials in this dress are blended with skill, or it would have a most bizarre appearance.

This will be the last service in the evening.

Don't go home to-night without having previously made arrangements with John O'Neil & Co to do up a fall suit in their own peculiar style which is quite popular as the elegant suits daily seen on the streets from this house will attest. Mr Scharf of the firm has been to San Francisco. That is sufficient. Be sure to call and select from the latest arrivals which are new and novel. The place is 3 First street.

SPOONS AND SPARKS

A broad and sinuous line of river bright with the full sunshine of a September noon here bordered with meadows there fringed with low woods and winding toward the clustered roofs of a distant town. Two wherries drifting idly in the shadow of hemlocks and pines while their prone and meditative occupants watch the hazy wreaths of smoke curl above the bowls of their pipes.

Of these two individuals the one nearest the sunshine is David Whipple a Bostonian aged nineteen, fair haired, fair skinned and six feet two. The other lying at full length with his cap pulled low over a pair of dark eyes is of slighter make and more vivacious expression this is Ernest Walch a young Virginian.

Fifteen minutes of silence had evidently tried the latter's patience excessively. He had frightened several turtles back to their watery haunts, had whistled to birds and apostrophized flies. He finally pocketed his pipe and sat erect with the remark "I say Davy."

"Well?"

"I saw Miss Wentworth to day."

That this announcement possessed some interest in the mind of the youth called Davy may be surmised from the fact that he too suddenly sat erect but he only said as he slowly knocked the ashes from his pipe "Humph."

"You'd have said something besides 'Humph' if you had seen her. She rode past our hotel."

"And I presume you mooned after her in your usual style."

"Very near it I admit," rejoined the other with a shrug. "The case is unique. I never before tried for a month unsuccessfully to gain an introduction to a lady. But I shall succeed yet."

"I'll wager anything you choose," was the reply, emphasized by a flourish of the pipe, "that I'll have an introduction first, after all," and the speaker faced his friend with the last trace of indifference banished from his countenance.

"Safe enough to wager where neither is likely to win," commenced his companion.

"That's as one thinks. I consider my winning as certain as as that I can reach the [illegible] bridge two miles down the river at least a minute in advance of you."

"Done!" exclaimed the Virginian, with a laugh and a quick straightening of his lithe figure. "The loser in the race abandons his chances, eh?"

In two minutes the wherries were abreast, and their owners ready for a start. The next, they swept off down the stream, pulled evenly and steadily. Both the young men were powerful rowers. Ernest had the most effective stroke, David greater reserves of strength. It was pretty to see the two wherries dart through [illegible] and sunshine, past bold wooded curves and banks gay with golden rod. Their [illegible] during the first ten minutes was quiet, but at the beginning of the second mile it became more lively. Laborers in the fields on [illegible] hand paused to watch as the wherries [illegible] by, and now the red jacket, now the blue [illegible]. For a while the fates favored David, and he won half a boat's length in a [illegible] of a mile. Then Ernest bent more gallantly to his oars, and regained his place. But in the next quarter he lost again and David's strength told steadily against him.

[illegible] they were on the last half mile, a [illegible] stretch with the bridge before [illegible] by distance, they pulled like two [illegible]. David's teeth were set, and [illegible]. Ernest's cap had fallen, [illegible] black eyes gleamed triumphantly as [illegible] that [illegible] determined stroke brought [illegible] his first position. Independently [illegible] the race was magnificent. [illegible] to be but one spectator of its [illegible]. This was a gray-haired gentleman, [illegible] the two boats sweep around the [illegible] of the river, checked his horse on [illegible].

[illegible] in grandly, darting like birds [illegible] the smooth water, straight and swift [illegible]. The intent watcher leaned far [illegible] the rails, and as both bows simultaneously [illegible] on opposite sides of the central pier, utt[ered] an involuntary "Hurrah!" [It] was like an electric shock to the two ex[hausted rowers].

"By Jove!" [panted] David, trying his best [illegible], "we hit the pier in the same [illegible]."

[illegible] in no condition to dispute or to [illegible] by a nod, and the ejaculation, "[illegible] one, isn't it?"

"Who's the party on the bridge?"

[illegible] was saved an answer by the appearance of the "party," who scrambled down an [illegible] and [illegible] hed radiently.

"[illegible] well done, young gentlemen! I haven't seen such a race since my college days. Pretty evenly matched. Now I should [illegible]," with a glance from the powerful David to his slighter companion, "that this [illegible] had an advantage, but it seems not."

"Walch makes up in science what he lacks in strength," said David, magnanimously, [illegible] his boat.

[Ernest] imitated his friend's example, remarking [illegible] "with all the science he could muster, he had rarely won a race with Davy."

"A fine sight it was, indeed!" resumed their [illegible]. "I used to be remarkably [fond] of boating before I got my flesh—remark[illegible]. Some of my pleasantest hours have been [passed] on the Charles River."

"On the Charles? You were a Cambridge [man] then? We belong to that persuasion," [rejoined] David.

"Harvards, are you? I'm glad to hear it. [illegible] to have met you. Allow me to introduce [myself]. [My] name's Wentworth. [My] place is about a [quarter] of a mile from here. My carriage is on the bridge; come and take a glass of wine with me, and have a chat about college af[fairs]."

The [illegible] of the two recipients of this invitation were [illegible]. The name was Wentworth—wasn't it? Ernest pulled his cap lower to hide the twinkle in his eyes, and David abruptly [illegible] up the spoons of his wherry. Neither had an idea of refusing though Ernest murmured something about appearance, boating [illegible], etc., which objection was promptly [overruled] by their friend.

"Boats are perfectly safe. I'll send a man down to [illegible] to 'em. Dress is all right," [said] the old gentleman, pulling himself up the [illegible] by means of a wiry shrub. "[Jump] in; jump in!"

Five minutes' driving brought our friends to the Wentworth place, the goal of their desires, an ancient stone mansion set in the midst of [illegible] grounds. On the way up the avenue the two visitors were electrified by seeing the [illegible] of muslin skirts on the terrace. Immediately after both had a vision of blue eyes and curls and a dainty figure, and found themselves bowing confusedly to "my daughter [Ella]," the divinity of their worship.

Both gentlemen were in a maze most of the afternoon. They had wine in the shady dining-room through the windows of which they caught glimpses of beds of bright Autumn flowers. They had stories of jovial anecdotes from their host. Then they had music in the parlors, and sweet commonplaces from Miss Wentworth.

When our two friends were set down on the piazza of their hotel at seven o'clock that evening both stood motionless watching the carriage of their new acquaintance rolling away. As it disappeared they first faced each other blankly, then, by common impulse burst into a fit of laughter. The inaugural remark was made by Ernest.

"This beats anything I ever heard of."

"It does. We're even Walch. Neither of us won the race, and neither of us won the wager."

"Curious enough!" rejoined Ernest soliloquizing as he turned away. "I wonder which will win the lady."

The enlightened reader must have anticipated results. Our collegians were not original in their love making. The odd feature in the case was in dual love making. The changes were rung on riding boating music croquet, and billiards for three weeks. At the end of that time, unfortunately for their friendly feelings they found themselves as even in this race for a lady's favor as they had been in the memorable race down the river. Both were prodigious—and equal—favorites with Mr Wentworth, both received gracious smiles from Miss Wentworth, both made the greatest efforts to please, and spent the whole of their pocket-money in the attempt.

I do not know precisely when their friendship became a memory but at the end of those three weeks they were enemies who endured each other for the sake of appearance when they met at the Wentworth's house but outside it, never exchanged a word, and regarded each other loweringly at meals and in passage ways. To add to the complications of the affair, the 28th of September approached bringing with it the dreaded necessity of returning to Cambridge.

The days flew by, and each delayed until the morrow before putting his fate to the test. On the 27th both must go, and the 25th found each resolute to ask the question that had become all important to both on the 26th.

The 26th came and with it a violent autumnal storm. Instead of proceeding to the Wentworth mansion for a morning's croquet our heroes found themselves reduced to despair. David misanthropically kept his room. Ernest lounged around the stables till dinner time, played billiards half the afternoon then took a survey from the window and formed a desperate resolve. Immediately after supper at which David did not appear, he put on heavy boots borrowed a cloak of the landlord and started through a sea of mud in a pouring rain and in the face of a furious northeaster for the Wentworths.

[Looking] back at David's lighted windows [he] felt [a] sight with [illegible] triumph but for once he had stolen a march upon his rival. [illegible] [When] he finally stood [illegible] and [illegible] drenched [illegible] Wentworth [illegible] [his spirits] rose however at sight [of] the cosy library where Mr Wentworth in dressing gown and slippers sat before an open wood fire and Miss Ella seated on a cricket was occupied in popping corn. The latter rose with a blush and [illegible] with one.

"Please excuse papa and me. We were having one of our old fashioned evenings."

"Delighted to see you my boy," chimed in Mr Wentworth adding with uncomfortable solicitude "And where's Mr Whipple?"

"I really don't know what Davy is doing with himself this evening," responded Ernest seating himself on the other side of the fire and wishing Mr Wentworth in the arctic regions. "I for my part couldn't reconcile myself to leave town without spending my last evening with you," these words accompanied by a significant glance at the young lady.

"Your coming is a perfect godsend—a perfect godsend!" was the hopelessly brisk response. "I don't know anything duller than a September storm. I wish your friend was here but never mind we'll make an evening of it."

Accordingly the hospitable old gentleman rang for fruit and wine and cigars and gave full freedom to his garrulous tongue. Ernest was in despair. Reminiscences and stories and jokes succeeded one another while he was obliged to laugh and answer and take hopeless notes of the fire-light gleams netted in the brown curls opposite, the downcast eyes the snowy hands busy with the tassels of a coquettish silk apron and the tiny slipper resting on a flower in the hearth rug.

Periodical glances at the clock told Ernest that it was half-past eight, then that it was nine. He formed the second desperate resolve of the day, and began to talk about his travels. He gave a long and intensely prosy account of his life in Paris using all the French he could think of. Mr Wentworth had never travelled, but evinced polite attention. Ernest with unflagging zeal went on with Germany and Italy. His host nodded with waning interest. Ernest was about to attempt Russia, when a snore delighted his ears.

The young lady nervously resumed her corn popping, vainly trying to hide a smile. The fire was dying down. Ernest hastened to assist her seized the tongs, and raised a heavy log; as he raised it, a brand fell out upon the hearth and broke in pieces, sending a shower of fiery sparks over the pretty figure on the cricket. Each uttered a suppressed exclamation. Miss Wentworth shook her curls hastily and Ernest shook the little silk apron and much-be-ruffled skirt. He shook it so vigorously that a letter dropped out of the pocket and lay before him, address upward but he did not heed the letter for somehow he had mistaken the young lady's hand for her apron and still held it though the sparks were only black sparks. He was in the midst of an incoherent but earnest speech saying something about wanting the right to protect her from all the troubles of life as he had protected her from those flying sparks when the letter caught his eye. "Miss Ella Wentworth D——, Massachusetts," in David's handwriting unmistakably. That one glance showed him also that it was a drop letter, and stamped September 26.

Ernest hesitated so noticeably in the middle of his speech, that his listener glanced up at him in surprise, and caught his glance at the letter. She picked it up hastily, with a rosy blush and an exclamation that caused the old gentleman's drowsy eyes to open wide.

"Ahem! I believe," he observed, with the extra dignity sleepy persons often assume "that I lost what you were last saying—about the Swiss patois, wasn't it?"

Poor Ernest! It was hard work to sit and hear the history of the old gentleman's last speculation after that and many pleading glances were sent toward the flushed, down cast face opposite him. At last, at eleven, he rose helplessly to go. He lingered and lingered, finding continually last words to say till the utter futility of delay discouraged him into seeking the door, but here the old gentleman suddenly radiant with a new thought, detained him.

"Dear me! why, Nell I had almost forgotten what we spoke of at dinner. Mr Walch, we want you and your friend Whipple at Christmas time, you know. You must give us a few days. Nell here is going to be married about that time and you must both come to the wedding without fail. I dare say," he added struck by the blankness of Ernest's face, "that you've never happened to hear of it before. Well well good news is always welcome, isn't it? Now I shall depend on you for a week at Christmas, and don't forget to bring your friend. Good bye and good luck to you my boy!" and the hearty good wisher followed him out upon the door step to give a final hand-shake.

A half hour after as David was pacing his chamber feverishly his door opened, and a drenched and muddy figure presented itself, and remarked hysterically as it dropped a soaked cloak on the floor:

"Well old fellow we've come out even again. Neither of us won the race neither won the wager and neither has won the lady."

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

FRIDAY EVENING October 17 1873

Gold in New York to-day 109¼.

Portland Legal Tender rates 90 buying 9[illegible] selling.

Gold bars are quotable at 7[illegible] fine.

Exchange on San Francisco ¾ of 1 per cent discount.

Liverpool Wheat 13s 3d[illegible] club [illegible].

The supply of available funds in our market [illegible] to the morning, and with a few [illegible] weeks we shall look for [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]. Merchants here [illegible] [illegible] which [illegible] the safety which it is sure.

[illegible] of the [illegible] position is [illegible] [illegible] for specie payments [illegible].

There are justifiable hopes now that some measures may be adopted at the coming session [illegible] first step to specie payments. The country is far less difficult than the speculative interest [illegible] it continued inflation would have it believed. It will be remembered that when Mr McCulloch entered upon the duties of Secretary of the Treasury he found the amount of United States notes outstanding [illegible] $1,500,000. In accordance with the [illegible] pledge of public faith and his own policy in the Treasury under Mr Chase who [illegible] he proceeded [illegible] [illegible] cancel $[illegible] greenbacks [illegible] the [illegible] outstanding [illegible] falling to $[illegible] and the price of gold dropped pari passu with the redemption from [illegible]. Congress then interposed and prohibited any further reduction of the greenbacks. There is no doubt whatever that had Mr McCulloch continued his policy a very few months more would have seen gold at par and resumption a matter of course. The speculative interests prevailed however and paper bubbles have grown from immense magnitude until in their weakness they clamor loudly for more paper. The position now is one gold being 109 when a small further monthly contraction of the outstanding greenbacks will carry it to par. There is much less paper in circulation than appears from the face of the reported issues. The Treasury reports outstanding $[illegible] legal tender notes and $[illegible] of fractions. But the Treasury hold on hand about $[illegible] legal tender and the remainder $340,000,000 are held by banks and institutions mostly as the basis of their own issues which reach $[illegible]. The whole stands thus:

Legal Tenders outstanding		$[illegible]310,000 00
National Bank notes		[illegible]
Less on hand	$[illegible]
Less L T on hand	[illegible]
	119,[illegible] 147
Total paper issues		[illegible]
Fractional currency		[illegible]

The Treasury holds $80,000,000 of coin. The banks report $1[illegible] but that is nearly all certificates for the coin in the Treasury. Now the legal tenders are the basis for the bank note redemption. That is the banks redeem their notes only in legal tenders which are not receivable for customs dues. Now it is very apparent that if the Government made the legal tenders good for duties and offered to redeem them on presentation out of the 80,000,000 [of] gold it holds they would at once be par for all and altogether equal to it. It could then pay them out for interest on the public debt and all distinctions between gold and paper would disappear as far as the Government is concerned and all the more readily if it canceled from its surplus revenue a certain amount every month. The legal tender being then equal to gold the National Bank notes would also be equal to gold since the holder could obtain gold if he wished but no one would draw gold except to export when exchange is adverse. The return to specie payments would give a support to American credits now much needed abroad. In relation to the fractional currency the matter is very much more simple. There is now a glut of silver in the market and its price as compared to gold is at a discount nearly as much as that of paper. The Government could at this moment buy $[illegible] of silver to replace the fractional currency at a rate which would give it a profit of $[illegible] and give a very great and needed support to the silver market, which it has hitherto helped to depress by its paper follies. The fall in silver in London and China and India has caused it to accumulate here at a discount and the Government has only to open the Eastern channels of circulation to its use when it would pour off at rising values through the Mint.

The coinage at the San Francisco Mint for the month of September was $2,264,500 and $15,442,900 since January 1st. The descriptions coined this year were: Double eagles $1[illegible],012,000 half eagles $45,000 quarter eagles $17,500 trade dollars $2[illegible],500 half dollars $37,500 quarter dollars $[illegible],000 dimes $16,000 half dimes $16,[illegible]00.

English Wheat Crops.

The agricultural statistics of the United Kingdom give the following summary of the extent of land in Great Britain under wheat:

	ACRES
1871	3,571,[illegible]
1872	3,[illegible]
1873	3,490,[illegible]

Mr James Sanderson writing on the subject of the yield of wheat for 1873 says that taking the average area under wheat in the United Kingdom to be 3,800,000 acres and deducting 20 per cent for the reduced area of this year and estimating the yield to be 24 bushels per acre or 20 per cent short of the average yield the total product of this year's wheat crop will be 9,120,000 quarters or a deficit for the short area of 2,850,000 quarters and for the deficient yield 2,280,000 quarters making a total deficit of 130,000 quarters.

Miscellaneous.

Australia from being within the last five years a grain importing country receiving shipments of wheat and flour from California now looms up as one of the great wheat producing centers of the world. The Australian exports to England last year were sufficiently large to constitute an important element of supply to that country and this year the amount will be considerably increased.

The vessels now in port and due here will float near all the wheat now in [store] here which is upward of 10,000 tons.

One of the largest sailing vessels ever leaving New York for this coast was the Glory of the Seas, 2,[illegible]00 tons which cleared for San Francisco on the 10th inst. We learn that she brings considerable freight for Portland Merchants.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES! NEW REMEDIES!

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned from visiting the principal Hospitals of Europe, and has resumed practice at his Dispensary, 623 Kearney street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco, where his old patients and those requiring his services may find him.

The Doctor has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies and has returned with increased facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of sexual indulgence, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies, that they are cared for and cured before it is too late. Send them immediately to DR. GIBBON a physician who has made private diseases his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate virus without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities publishing their skill in curing all of these in a few days imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. He therefore careful and make strict inquiry or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice or depraved sexual indulgence, is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent producing with unerring certainty the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combated by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequently insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will not be satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

Married Men,

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of the fearful maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them, nor delay to obtain immediate relief. DR. GIBBON is responsible and will give to a patient a written instrument binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

Cured at Home.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon stating the symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use by inclosing Ten Dollars coin in a registered letter through the Post-office or through Wells, Fargo & Co a package of medicine will be forwarded to any part of the Union. All communications strictly confidential.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who are bogus sworn-to certificates to deceive the unwary. Some of the self-styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places, are tradesmen and became too lazy to work at their trades. Some are smiths, shoemakers, tinners, carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. The only way to avoid imposition is to make inquiry—it will cost you nothing and may save you many regrets; as, for as advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, pretended patients' letters, etc. Dr Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to treat disease that is sure to cure.

Address DR. J F GIBBON 623 Kearney street, corner Commercial, San Francisco. Postoffice Box 1,957. REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 1,957 ON THE LETTER. Consultations FREE.

Correspondents will please inform DR. GIBBON that they read his advertisement in the DAILY OREGONIAN. j1d&w
